

Sample HR Policy Handbook

Section 1: Paid Time Off. Full-time employees accrue fifteen days of paid time off per calendar year during their first three years of employment. Accrual increases to twenty days beginning in the fourth year of continuous service. Part-time employees accrue paid time off on a prorated basis according to their regularly scheduled hours.

Section 2: Sick Leave. Employees accrue one sick day per month of continuous employment, up to a maximum of twelve days per calendar year. Unused sick leave carries over to the following year up to a cap of thirty days total. A doctor's note is required for any sick leave absence exceeding three consecutive working days.

Section 3: Parental Leave. Employees who have completed at least twelve months of continuous service are eligible for up to twelve weeks of parental leave following the birth, adoption, or foster placement of a child. The first two weeks of parental leave are paid at full salary; the remaining ten weeks are unpaid but job-protected.

Section 4: Remote Work. Employees may request a remote work arrangement subject to manager approval and role suitability. Remote work agreements are reviewed annually and may be revoked if performance or availability expectations are not met.

Section 5: Overtime. Non-exempt employees who work more than forty hours in a single work week are entitled to overtime pay at one and one-half times their regular hourly rate for all hours worked beyond forty. Overtime must be pre-approved by a direct manager except in genuine emergency circumstances.

Section 6: Workplace Safety. All employees are required to complete annual safety training relevant to their role. Any workplace injury, no matter how minor, must be reported to a supervisor within twenty-four hours. Failure to report an injury in a timely manner may affect eligibility for workers' compensation benefits.
