

Sample Code of Conduct and Ethics

Section 1: Conflicts of Interest. Employees must disclose any financial or personal interest that could reasonably be seen to conflict with their duties. Undisclosed conflicts of interest are grounds for disciplinary action up to and including termination of employment.

Section 2: Gifts and Entertainment. Employees may not accept gifts, meals, or entertainment from vendors or clients with a value exceeding one hundred dollars without prior written approval from their department head. Cash gifts of any amount are strictly prohibited under all circumstances.

Section 3: Reporting Violations. Employees who become aware of a suspected violation of this code are required to report it to their supervisor or the compliance hotline. Reports made in good faith are protected from retaliation under this policy, regardless of the outcome of any investigation.

Section 4: Confidential Information. Employees must not disclose confidential business information to any external party without authorization, both during and after their employment with the organization.

Section 5: Anti-Bribery. Employees, agents, and contractors are strictly prohibited from offering, promising, or giving anything of value to a government official for the purpose of obtaining or retaining business. This prohibition applies regardless of local custom and regardless of whether the payment is made directly or through a third party.

Section 6: Data Protection. Employees who handle customer or employee personal data must follow the organization's data protection standards at all times. Any suspected data breach must be reported to the compliance officer immediately, and in no case later than twenty-four hours after discovery.